I want you

US federal authorities could soon have access to your confidential financial information, including bank account numbers, credit history, RRSPs... even your monthly living expenses.

That's because the Campbell Liberals are contracting out the administration of Provincial Revenue to an American multinational corporation, making your personal tax and financial records subject to secret scrutiny under the USA Patriot Act.

There's only one foolproof way to protect your personal information: leave it in government... where it belongs.
